Common Management Issues

Overview:

Common Management Issues courses are delivered in order beginning with Everything DiSC Management (in two parts). This course prepares a management team to work more effectively together by first, getting a good understanding of their own management style and the styles of others within their team and second, understanding how their own style affects others on the team.

The three courses that follow the Everything DiSC Management course apply that knowledge to handling common management issues. Since each course builds on information and skills acquired in the previous courses, they are delivered in the following order:

- Conflict Management
- Change in the Workplace
- Inclusion@Work
